

FIGURE 4.43 Physical work environment depends, among other things, on how the office workspace is fitted. Ergonomics also play an important role in the physical work environment, and this includes, in addition to the fitting of the workplace, also working postures and the possibility of movement at the work, including variation, possibility of training, etc.