

	CONTRIBUTION TO GLOBALISATION
Political	International cooperation organizations such as the UN (the United Nations), WHO (World Health Organization)
Economic	International capital market Multinational companies International exchanges International economic institutions, such as the IMF (International Monetary Fund), WTO (World Trade Organization), and the World Bank
Socially	Increasing prevalence of global social media, such as Facebook, LinkedIn, etc.
Technological	Computers Internet Mobile phones High-speed trains Intercontinental flights Super Tankers and – container ships Cars with low fuel consumption
Legal	The International Court of Justice
Cultural	English Language progress as a global language Tourism
Physical	Population growth International Refugee Problems Growing understanding that global environmental problems can only be tackled internationally Increased migration

FIGURE 7.9
Factors contributing to globalisation.